Col. Beatty to Washington.
Col. Bill Beatty, of Brady, was in town yesterday wearing a "boiled" shirt and a stiff collar, this preliminary to donning the uniform of a colonel attached to the staff of Governor Morehead, to which official position he was recently appointed. The Colonel has ordered his uniform and it will be a dandy, and when William rides down Pennsylvania avenue in Washington astride a prancing Pegasus in the big inaugural parade he will be one of the central figures and will receive the plaudits of the assembled thousands. But more seriously speaking, the Colonel will sure go to Washington and we are glad that Lincoln county is to be represented by such a representative citizen as our old friend Bill.

The total number of men employed on the new round house and the auxiliary work ranges from 150 to 175. Every day men apply for work, but not all applicants are employed. The work of erecting the steel frames of the round house began the latter part of last week. The drop pit, which caused the contractors so much grief on account of the flow of water, has been completed. The pit for the coal chutes, the bottom of which is seventeen feet below the surface, is now being excavated, and much trouble is being experienced on account of water. Three pumps are used in getting rid of the flow.

The old Baptist church building is for sale, to be moved off the lot where it now stands. See J. L. Loudon in Howe & Maloney's store, for terms and price, or make offer of cash.

County Superintendent Cleo Chappell will leave Saturday for Philadelphia to attend the National Educational Association. Enroute home she will visit in Washington D. C. during the inauguration ceremonies. She expects to be absent two weeks or longer.
